Labor Courts

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL "The Gentleman from Indiana"

Labor courts, or compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes, are much discussed these days. A lot of fine people are for them.

They say, look at our courts of justice in every county seat, in every state capital, in Washington. They say, "To these courts we submit the most important disputes involving property, contracts, liberty, life itself. Why then should there not be similar courts to settle these disputes between labor and capital, the wage earner and the wage saver?"

On the surface, the argument is persuasive. It seems simple and just. But it is not so simple, nor do I believe it just.

There is a vital difference between applying the judicial power to our customary suits at law and applying them to the problems of industry. The difference is this. In the customary case, judges deal with events that have already taken place. They deal with contracts already entered into by the free will of the parties. If the contract has been broken, a court or jury tells the man who broke it how much damages he must pay.

In other cases, a court may interpret a contract for the future guidance of the parties. But it is still Continued on Page Two

GAS PLANT "EXPLOSION" AFFECTS HOMES, INDUSTRIES HERE

Gas consumers on the lines of the Philadelphia Electric Company drawing their supply from the West Conshohocken Branch of the Phila. Electric Co. found themselves without gas this morning shortly after a fire had destroyed the compressor building at West Conshohocken.

An unofficial report obtained by telephone from Conshohocken at 11 o'clock this morning was to the effect that "Consumers will be 'back on the line' in about one-half hour, but not with a full load. Consumers are advised to listen to their radio programs for reports of progress".

News reports from Conshohocken are to the effect that an "explosion" occurred at 7:30 this morning in the compressor plant. This, however, it is stated, could not be properly termed an "explosion" as no noise was noted in the community. At the plant are located three huge storage tanks, one of these being one of the three largest in Pennsylvania and one of the largest in the nation. It is 250 feet high and contains 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The other two are almost as large. One of the tanks is practically against the compressor building.

Firemen from six companies fought the blaze valiantly in sub-freezing weather, and constantly played streams of water on the tanks and surrounding area to prevent spread of the flames. The tanks did not ignite. At 9:10, when the fire was almost out a second "explosion" occurred, there being no noise accompanying this one either.

There were but three men in the compressor building when the "explosion" occurred, and no one was injured.

The tanks service an area within a radius of Reading, Bristol and Philadelphia city line. The pumps used to pump gas into the tanks are crippled. There are 5 compressors, 3 electrically operated and two by gas. The three former were badly damaged by fire and water, and the latter two by water. The roof of the compressor building was destroyed, and the walls which still stand are "Cracked".

The 200 houses at Bristol Terrace I, heated by gas, were without heat and the families huddled together, putting on coats, and wrapping children in blankets. Employees of the project went about the area, shutting off the gas heaters as a safety measure until service is restored.

Various private homes using gas for cooking and heating were of course without service.

At the Courier Office, stereotyping is dependent upon gas heat, and metal pots on the linotype machines are heated with gas and ceased to operate shortly before 11 o'clock, and some of the copy was set by hand. In some instances linotype corrections in articles could not be made.

At the Keystone Hotel, Bristol's largest restaurant, the food for the noon meal was about three quarters cooked when the gas service was shut off. The manager, David Granatir, immediately ordered the preparing of sandwiches, and coal and electric stoves in private residences nearby were used to prepare hot soups and coffee.

7541 BUCKS ELECTORS ARE NOW 'DELINQUENT'

Annual Survey of 2-Year Delinquent Voters Made By County Clerks

SOME ARE REINSTATED

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 22—During the past month the clerical force in the Registration Office in the Administration Building, here, has made the annual survey of two-year delinquent voters. Examination of the voting records on each registration in the district under the 110 election districts in the county, revealed a total of 7541 electors in the two-year delinquent category.

Electors thus listed are those whose registrations have been on the active files of the county for a period of two full calendar years, from Jan. 1, 1945, until Jan. 1, 1947, and failed to vote at any elections during that period. Others which have not been included in this year's delinquent list are those who were re-instated during 1945 or 1946 in response to their notices in previous years' surveys.

The 7541 notices, which are at present under preparation for the mails, will be accompanied by an official re-instatement card, on which the persons to whom they are sent must sign his or her name, together with the post office address, and return to the Registration Commission within ten days from the date of the postmark on the notice.

Failure to comply with this request will result in the cancellation of the voters registration, and result in the necessity of becoming re-registered in order to restore eligibility to vote.

"In order to avoid the inconvenience of re-registering," said Registration Clerk Robert F. Detweiler, "it is important that all delinquents attend to the matter immediately upon the receipt of the notices."

Preparation of the notices for posting is nearing completion and the department is in hopes of getting them in the mail very soon.

According to the records, only 2402 delinquent notices were mailed in connection with last year's survey in comparison to the greatly increased number of this year.

NANCY WILLS AIDS IN MEXICAN CLINIC WORK

Former Bristol Girl Serving With American Friends Service Group

STUDY OF LANGUAGE

A former Bristol girl, student at Hood College, Frederick, Md., is having "the time of her young life" in Mexico. The young woman is Miss Nancy Wills, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin K. Wills, of Tullytown-Fallington Road, who is, with a group of other young women and men, aiding in clinic work in rural Mexico.

The groups are working on their good-will project under direction of the American Friends Service Committee, in response to invitations from Mexican officials. They are seeing at first-hand how various groups of Mexicans live, learning their customs, and likewise improving their use of the Spanish language.

Miss Wills, who studied Spanish for one year at George School, Newtown, and during her first year at Hood College, last term, is improving her knowledge of the language. During this year's leave of absence from college, she is learning all she possibly can about Mexico and at the same time giving aid to the people of that country.

The former Bristolian went to that country south of the border last September, she making the trip by train to San Antonio, then by bus to her post in Mexico. Difficultly developed with the bus in the mountains of Mexico and the passengers had a 12-hour wait before they could continue.

Miss Wills and the group she is working with are residing in a school house located between the villages of Petecingo and Cuautla. This is the home of a group of girls, the boys living at Yantepec. The girls do their own buying, cooking and cleaning.

AN EARNED TRIBUTE

When one makes a hoppy of a useful form of activity, particularly when it tends to promote morality and benefits the public, he instinctively gains the esteem of his fellow citizens. That obviously is the logic on which the Philadelphia Junior Board of Commerce predicated the award of its Distinguished Service Key to Robert R. M. Carpenter, Jr., thereby designating him as the young man who made the most conspicuous contribution to civic and community life in Philadelphia in 1946.

The Philadelphia Club of the National Baseball League, of which Mr. Carpenter is president and owner, last season moved up from last position, where it had been entrenched for many years, to fifth place in the league standing. This task was accomplished in the face of difficulties through the efforts of Mr. Carpenter and his staff.

According to the citation accompanying the award, Mr. Carpenter, by admitting free more than 85,000 youngsters to the Phillies' games last year, made a worthy contribution to the well-being of youth and toward the curbing of juvenile delinquency.

Citations such as this one for community service are an encouragement to civic-mindedness. They remind the thousands engaged in efforts outside of their immediate occupation that people do appreciate what they are doing.

BRING OUT THE FACTS

Demands for Congressional inquiries into commercial aviation must have taken many airline officials aback. This year just passed showed an encouraging advance in the safety of air travel. Measures now under way promise still further improvement. But the explanation for the sudden clamor at Washington is clear enough.

Public attention has been focused on the problem of air safety because of a number of recent crashes that have brought heavy loss of life. It may be that fatalities have been few by the yardstick of passenger-miles flown, but accounts of such tragedies leave a more vivid impression than the statistics. There is some evidence that the result has been a decline in traffic and that is added reason for concern.

As a matter of fact, the figures imply that progress toward safer air travel might have been greater. Granted that the 1946 fatality rate of 1.24 for every 100,000,000 passenger-miles represented a long stride forward compared with the 1945 rate of 2.14, it is something of an admission to say that it was the best since 1939. Certainly it raises the question of why last year's record was worse than that of seven years ago.

The answer may be that the expense of installing devices to make air travel safer has stood in the way. But if that is the case it will do no harm to bring out the facts so that a remedy can be applied.

America's egg surplus has reached 150,000,000 dozen, and a Presidential election is still two years in the offing.

dealing with a contract already freely agreed to. In either case, the court writes no new contract to take effect in the future. It is not the business of the courts to write contracts.

But that is what compulsory arbitration aims to do. It is designed to fix wages and working conditions in the future. To the extent that compulsory arbitration is effective, it takes mutual consent out of contracts. And that is something new and dangerous—subtracted from the American system.

To illustrate: Jones has a home for sale. He asks $10,000 for it. Smith wants to buy it and offers $8,000. Jones won't come down. Smith won't go up. But along comes the law. Let us suppose that it sets up a compulsory arbitration court with jurisdiction over real estate bargaining. The court hears the case and decides that the price shall be $9,000. The house cannot be sold for either more or less to anyone.

Is that right? I don't think so. And I see no difference in principle between a price fixed by law for a man's house or a price fixed by law for his time, which is part of his life. So on this question, I agree with the opposition expressed by organized labor and by the majority of business men.

When we get away from free contracts, we are entering on dangerous ground. To me, it is an entering wedge for Fascism, whose major definition is the control of all business by government.

This is nothing against arbitration. I believe in arbitration when the parties cannot agree. But the agreement to arbitrate must be voluntary, not compulsory.

You may ask, "But what do we do when strikes occur in vitally important public service industries, electric light and power, or railroads, or coal mining?" Well, while the right to quit one's job is in the Constitution (the involuntary servitude), the right to strike and still maintain the status of an employee is not in the Constitution. That is a privilege conferred by law. In essential industries, society can protect itself in many ways. It can withdraw the privilege conferred by the Wagner Act from those who strike or freeze the public to coerce the making of a contract. Coercion is not bargaining.

The compulsory arbitration, or contracts by the coercion of the law, is wrong in principle. It is equally wrong to coerce the innocent public by violence and strikes in essential industries.

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

The accident occurred near the intersection of Poorhouse road and Second street pike, Richboro, as the operator of the car had turned off the Poorhouse road into the Second street pike. Yerkes told Trooper Bahns of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police that he did not see Kline at the time.

The other accident occurred at Spring Valley, when a tank truck containing 3,000 gallons of milk, and operated by G. Winters Bair, 33, of Intercoast, and an Army truck operated by Pvt. Kurt Elmer, 22, of Fort Dix, N. J., collided.

According to Trooper Aulenbach of the Doylestown sub-station, Elmer was blinded by the headlights of an approaching car going west on route 202. He applied his brakes and the milk truck crashed into the rear of the Army truck. No one was injured.

THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB!

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.

Advices every sufferer from Rheumatic--Arthritic--Sciatic--Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pain in his hip--knee--calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub--the doctor's prescription--and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at United Cut Rate Store.

Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money. (Advertisement).

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis,
Pastor,
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father we thank Thee for this day. Our years have come to us a day at a time. Some days we remember but most of them we have forgotten. And yet each day lengthens the span of life. We speak of some days as being good days. But we know that only good comes from Thee. Our use of our time determines the contribution the day is to make to our life. Only Thou does know what this day will be worth in the scales of eternity. We pray for increased powers so that we may be better enabled to serve Thee better. Bless our loved ones we pray in Jesus name. Amen.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 22—Bristol High won its fifth straight Lower Bucks County victory last night on the Parker School floor, trouncing the Langhorne High, 57-21, in a one-sided match.

Coach Don Fetterman alternated his players in the contest, using his starting five in the first and third quarters.

"Blessing On the Day I Found Rhu-Aid"—Her Rheumatic Pains End!

One lady recently took Rhu-Aid three days and said afterward that she never would have believed such a "wonder medicine" existed. She says she couldn't raise her left arm more than a few inches. Rheumatic pains afflicted the muscles of her shoulder and arm. She could hardly move the fingers on her left hand. Now this lady's rheumatic pains are gone since she got Rhu-Aid and she says she can use her left arm as well as her right. In fact, she says she simply blesses the day she got this medicine and she feels like an altogether different woman.

Rhu-Aid is the new liquid formula containing three valuable medical ingredients. These Three Great Medicines, all blended into one, go right to the very cause of rheumatic and neuritic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get Rhu-Aid. Sold by all drug stores here in Bristol. (Advertisement)

HARD-FOUGHT GAMES BOOKED FOR TONIGHT

The Fifth Ward Sporting Club and Falls Alumni will meet tonight in a Bristol Basketball League game to determine fourth position in the league standing. Fifth Ward at the present time holds a one-half game lead over the Fallsington lads. This will be the third game of a scheduled triple-header.

In the opening contest, the Hibernians will seek to maintain their grip on second place when they meet the victoryless Passanante team. The Passanante boys have been playing good ball but lack a driving finish and their last three games have been lost in the final quarter of the contest.

Sandwiched between the above mentioned games will be the tilt between the K. of C. and Rohm & Haas teams, with the chemical mixers anxious for a win to keep among the first three. The Maple Beach aggregation will meet the unbeaten Profy team Friday night.
